

THE WAR CRY

THE BROKEN BREAD

I once began a prayer to pray,
To help a soul in sin.
He led along the Narrow Way,
Against the might of sin.
My heart was full of loving zeal,
To bless and succour there;
When—broken words were my appeal—
I could not end my prayer!

The broken things of life are best—
For so an angel said—
The broken hearts at God's behalf
Become The Broken Lamb;
Our sins are like a load of tears,
Of failure and of pain,
Make much sweet for sugar ears,
Where Christ's redeemed reign.

HOW TO BE SAVED

It is said in God's Word: "Whoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved."

This does not mean, however, that all you have to do is to make a confession or say a prayer, and then upon the Lord means asking His forgiveness for past sins. You cannot pardon your own sins, and it is not good asking God to do this work unless you repeat of him and sincerely mean to lead a new life. It is said: "Ask God, for the sake of the Saviour who died for you, to forgive your wrong-doing and to cleanse your heart."

THE SEARCHLIGHT

* * * * * Therefore we ought to give them the truth, and not to let the things which we have heard, lest we should let them slip. For if the word spoken by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience was weighed in the balance, just recompence of reward; how shall we escape? for we neglect so great salvation, which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us, than that heard him, God also bearing them witness by signs and wonders. * * * * *

STRONGER THAN OURSELVES

The most startling thing about sin is its power to enslave. Jesus said, "Ito that committeth sin is the servant of sin," and every-day life and experience prove the saying to be true. Let a boy or a man tell a lie and he is henceforth the servant of falsehood unless freed by a higher power. Let the bank clerk misappropriate funds, let the business man yield to a trick in trade, let the young man surrender to the glamour of sin, let the youth take an intoxicating glass, and henceforth he is a slave. The cord that binds him may be light and silken, and he may burst himself free, but he deceives himself: he is no longer free, he is a bondman.

We may choose the path in life we will take; the course of conduct; the friends with whom we will associate; the habits we

IN THE HAYFIELD

"Surely the people is grass."—Isaiah xl. 7.

THREE are striking similarities between people and grass. "Oh, yes," you say, "all flesh is grass." People grow up, but are soon cut down, and wither away." Human life certainly lasts but for a short season. There assuredly is a reaper whose name is Death, but that is not the whole story of the grass. The grass, while it teaches the brevity of life, teaches also that life may be made very beautiful and indeed blessedness. Grass is not the worthless, empty, finding nothing—some people take it to be; nor need human life be, either.

MANY VARIETIES of grasses are found in every field; there is scarcely more diversity in a crowd of human beings. See how the grass is strewn with flowers, not only with the clover and other blossoms hidden in the bottom, but with flowers waving at the top of the taller grasses, so fragrant and so sweet as to attract the bees. A field of grass is a wonderful, an amazing sight God has made. As God wished to teach man immortal lessons in the earth He spreads his feet.

Take a simple blade and examine it carefully. The finest ribbon offered for sale in the shops of a city is not to be compared with it for quality of texture or beauty. How gracefully the tall grasses carry themselves—if they were palm trees they could not be more stately! And all this beauty is given to the grass to cut down cattle, and through them to serve man. If God has honoured the lowly grass with such beauty, surely He must have tender thoughts towards the men who rule the grass.

"If God so cloth the grass of the field," said Jesus to the people treatment is required, and then it is cut down, and the gain is measured. People also are not comparable to the grass.

Then there is the grass of the lower order, and the grass of the higher order. In the high grasses, indeed, provides food for man, wheat, rice, and others, and the due of true grasses. There are wonderful human life under God's hand. He gives man, sinful lives, new birth and introducing into a higher order of life, sanctified existence. Every day we see other blades of grass wonderful strength and power of adaptation to circumstances; so that it can live and do its appointed work. And people, lowly and weak though they may be, are equally cared for, if only they put their trust in God.

The grass itself ministers to the welfare of man, not only furnishing heritage or fodder for cattle, but providing through them for man. Set for the sheep and cattle of the pasture, we could speak much of the food supply come from grass. Of other grasses—flax, for instance—garments are made. Thus we are dependent on the lowliest of the green herbs. Grass is more than a symbol of life. It is not only figuratively but literally true that flesh is grass. The mowing of a hayfield, quite as much as the reaping of the corn harvest, is a lesson in the unfolding case of God.

Healing the Scars

Would that the people, who are thus cared for by God, fulfilled their lives as nobly as the grass. If God has honoured the lowly grass with such beauty, surely He must have tender thoughts towards the men who rule the grass.

"If God so cloth the grass of the field," said Jesus to the people

But the greatest gift, which among people is grass, is a surrender. It is the grass which in the hayfield feeds the horse and the cattle. It is the threshed-out seed of the ripe sheaves of corn, milled and baked into bread, which provides food for the table. The flour, with its bright flowers, is only fit to burn when it has faded into the dust of the ashes of the fire to be separated from the fiber. There is no other way of doing good but by sacrifice and full consecration to the will of God. Human life at its highest, like the grass, needs to be fully and completely given up to fill the purposes which God intends.

IN A FARMING DISTRICT

Another of the recent openings in the Saskatchewan Division, which has made most encouraging progress is Maple Creek. This town is situated in the centre of a splendid farming district and here again is a wonderful opportunity for work among those engaged in agricultural pursuits. The Army opened its doors in 1916 and has now a fine body of Blood and Spirit soldiers, who have professed conversion and fourteen are out-and-out Junior Soldiers. The Officers have regularly conducted meetings at different settlements within a radius of fifty miles. One of these meetings has never had less than twenty young people present for final conversion. A Young People's Brass Band was organized about six months ago which now renders good service to the Corps, both in the Open-air and Inside meetings.

CARES OF LIFE

Do not be anxious about the world—what you can get to eat; nor yet about your body—what you can get to wear. For the body is more than food, and the body than its clothes. Think of the nations—they neither seek nor replace them have neither strength nor barns, and yet God feeds them.

But which of you by being anxious can profit his life for the moment?

And, if you cannot do even the smallest thing, why be anxious about other things? Think of the fishes and how they grow. Yet neither toil nor spin yet, I tell you. Solomon in his splendor was not rich like one of them.

The converted man is bound to his infirm, Jesus loves him and he is free indeed. It is complete deliverance, a perfect liberty, a heavenward freedom that Jesus gives by bringing the soul into the law of liberty, which is the law of Love.—Col. Brengel in "Heart Talks on Holiness."

AN AGGRESSIVE ONWARD MARCH

SEVENTEEN NEW CORPS HAVE BEEN OPENED IN CANADA WEST DURING THE LAST THREE YEARS—A BRIEF REVIEW OF THE PROGRESS MADE AT EACH CENTRE

THE more one sees of Canada's Great West and imbibes the spirit of its people, the more one is impressed with its practically limitless possibilities for development. It does not require much vision to see that this Western land is destined to become well established and to set the pace for the rest of the British Empire.

SEVENTEEN NEW OPENINGS

Elsewhere in our columns will be found a record of the year's work in general, but we feel that special reference should be made to the advance during the past three years, so far as new centres are concerned. There are seventeen in all to date. We do not claim here that the establishment of the Salvation Army in these new centres has caused a great stir in the several sections of the country, but the out-going work is going on and need is being met which will bring forth fruit in due season. At a number of them, however, splendid progress has been made; souls have been saved, and some of the best fighting units of the Army are now in the field, making the most of these new opportunities.

The Army is in a position to meet the needs of the officers in charge are old Hudson Bay Co.'s Post and large numbers of trappers secure their outfit before starting out on their hunting and trapping expeditions. For some years the eyes of many people have been directed to the great Peace River Country in Northern Alberta, where reports have been published of great possibilities. Previous to the War there was an extraordinary flow of settlers to this North country and numbers are full of the country, which has become well established and is set to go. On the recommendation of the Divisional Commander, who had already "spied out the land," it was decided to open up the work. The War has to some extent affected the development of Peace River, but the work cannot be carried on in the same force but cannot come into its own in the near future.

There have been three Corps opened in the City of Winnipeg since Commissioner Sowton assumed command of the Territory. Winnipeg 7, 8 and 9. The first mentioned is the Grand Trunk Division, which is an offshoot of the Manitoba Corps, which has made a remarkable stride in its progress, and will stand for God and The Army. West Port, Fort William, is a settlement composed of mostly native Scandinavians. There are good prospects here and the work of those responsible run high, for the eventual establishment of a flourishing Corps.

THE PREMIER PLACE

Then there is Shaunavon, Assiniboia, and Herbert, all of which are in the Saskatchewan Division. In fact the Division holds the premier place so far as the opening of New Corps is concerned. The first shot was fired at Shaunavon on April 28th. The following statistics, given for the month of May, give an idea of the progress made in the first year. Number of inside meetings 25, number of Open-air meetings 30, total attendance inside 963. Free-will offerings $263.95. Number of souls at the Mercy Hospital, a real hospital, is specially suited to "up" districts and carry the Salvation message into sections of the country which would be impossible if the Army reach were set at the fact that the Hospital work had been established.

An outstanding instance of this is in connection with the work at Melville. This town is one of the most prosperous in Saskatchewan and is a Divisional point of the Grand Trunk Railway. The Army has been here to that extent that its influence has considerably decreased since the War. There is a large foreign element and a number of these people have been converted. Eighteen Senior Soldiers are now on the Roll. Large numbers of young people have been converted, and when have professed conversion and fourteen are out-and-out Junior Soldiers. The Officers have regularly conducted meetings at different settlements within a radius of fifty miles. One of these meetings has never had less than twenty young people present for final conversion. A Young People's Brass Band was organized about six months ago which now renders good service to the Corps, both in the Open-air and Inside meetings.

GOOD WORK IN PROGRESS

A good work is in progress and souls are being saved. This Corps raised the largest amount over the previous year's Self-Denial Effort in the Manitoba Division. How many meetings have been held in the various towns and cities of the Province, less than 100,000 population, and what a result of conversion. A Young People's Brass Band was organized about six months ago which now renders good service to the Corps, both in the Open-air and Inside meetings.

At the time of the Army's first opening in 1916, the first meeting was held in a small hall, a room being specially adapted for Salvation Army meetings. This hall has been thoroughly renovated and the interior has the appearance of a new building. The townpeople are very friendly and show their appreciation of the work in a practical manner.

At the time of the meetings are held in the Town Hall. We learn that the average attendance at the Thursday night service is 100, and for the two meetings on Sunday 300. Seventeen adults and 35 young people have professed conversion.

The Army opened at Herbert as a result of a petition which showed the great need for a church, but the work is being put in by the Officers. Assiniboia, but no details are to hand as to what has been accomplished.

A few weeks ago British Columbia placed two new openings to its credit. Trail and Anyox. Both are located in the interior of the province, and are at the latter lumbering is the principal industry. We have no doubt that the Officers responsible for planting the Blood and Fire Flag in these towns will by the blessing of God give a good account of themselves and will return to their posts.

Humboldt and Indian Head of the Saskatchewan Division both continue to give a good account of themselves. The former is a compact little town on the Canadian Northern Railway. At the time of the Army's first opening in 1916, the first meeting was held in a small hall, a room being specially adapted for Salvation Army meetings. This hall has been rather hard hit, although there are signs of improvement, and God is using the Officers and their faithful following to be a blessing to the community.

Indian Head is the Headquarters of the Government Experimental Farm and the surrounding country is ideal for farming. Since the opening, which took place a little over a year ago, steady progress has been made. A correspondent writes as follows: "During the past month services have been held in five different times in various school houses and in that way numbers have been reached and helped who otherwise would not have an opportunity to attend a religious service. We are believing that the future of The Salvation Army in Indian Head is bright and glorious. It is a great privilege for the Captains who sat up with the sick man for three nights. Before he passed away the Captain was able to point him to the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. The man expressed his wish to be buried in the ground where he had served so faithfully and eventually became an Officer, which is the Corps Cadet's intention.

After her father's death her mother bitterly opposed her and for months she had a hard and difficult path to tread, but she proved the Grace of God sufficient and by much prayer and self-sacrifice she was enabled to stand publickly before the people and mention of what has been done. There is Virden and West Port in the Manitoba Division. Over twenty souls have been converted at the former. The greatest difficulty is to find a suitable building in which to conduct the work. For the present a Moving Picture

STOOD FIRM AND WON

The good accomplished, and the amount of effort put forth, may be judged from what is visible on the surface at the front of the Corps. It can of a truth never be told. Here is just one instance. A young girl not out of her teens commenced to attend the meetings at one of these new openings. Everyone knew her, and she stood publickly before the people and mentioned of what has been done. Her father opposed the stand she took and went so far as to horsewhip her, but the young convert stood firm, and became a Corps Cadet. She lived in the same house as her father, and naturally ill at ease for the Captain, who sat up with the sick man for three nights. Before he passed away the Captain was able to point him to the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. The man expressed his wish to be buried in the ground where he had served so faithfully and eventually became an Officer, which is the Corps Cadet's intention.

OPENED THIS SPRING

It is a little premature, perhaps, to say much about the Corps that were opened this spring. We feel, however, it is due the Officers and the members of the Corps to record the names of the centres, and the names of the men and women who have attended the meetings quite frequently, and who have no other desire but for her daughter to follow Christ in the Salvation Army end in The Army.

Is this aggressive onward march into the small and unpopulated pieces in the Great West worth while? Why yes, a thousand times yes! "Carry on, Carry on."

EDITORIAL NOTES

FIFTY-TWO YEARS

IT is now fifty-two years ago since the Founder of The Salvation Army took his stand on Mile End Waste and started the Campaign for God and soul, which resulted in the formation of the world-wide Organization into which, under Divine blessing, that brave endeavour has grown.

Vain indeed, would be any attempt to sum up the blessings and benefits which have come to the world with The Salvation Army. Salvationists everywhere will at this time unite in praising God for all His goodness in it, a renewal of Conservation to the great purposes for which The Army has, we believe, been called into being.

Neither will the occasion, we are sure, be allowed to pass without fervent petition being made to God for the General and Mrs. Booth, and all associated with them in the direction of affairs, that they may be bestowed all grace, wisdom and power needed for the discharge of the onerous responsibilities which devolve upon them.

A Happy Coincidence

A SPOT pointed out by the Chief Secretary for Canada West in his notes upon the progress made during the past three years by that Territory, it is a pleasing coincidence that the anniversary of the Constitution of the separate command with Headquarters at Winnipeg should coincide with that of The Army's foundation.

The record presented will be seen to be excellent, and perhaps the happiest phase of it is to be found in the fine list of new Corps Openings it contains.

Our readers will remember that when Commissioner Richards presented Canada East's report at the Fall Congress in Toronto, the main feature was a similarly gratifying account of the establishment of new Corps. That advance, like these, should be possible at a time of stress such as is the present, gives cause for much gratitude to God and our Army.

Incidentally, to the progress which is being made is a tribute to the wisdom of the policy which gives women equal rights with men in The Salvation Army.

The love and good gifts given to God for all that has been accomplished. The present is ours. Every true Soldier of the Cross will be the very most of every opportunity for saving souls and extending the Kingdom, forgetting the things behind except to profit by the lessons they have taught.

Systematic Giving

IT is universally acknowledged that if anything is to be well and efficiently done, it must be gone about in a systematic manner, and this applies with equal force to giving money for the support of God's work as to anything else. We fear that many good people, in the same way that an unsystematic workman will appear to be doing a very great deal but often accomplish little, give in such an irregular and spasmodic fashion that they themselves, as well as looked-on, over-estimate the amount which is actually contributed within any specific period.

The much more satisfactory plan is for the members of any Organization, Church, or Corps to reckon up their incomes and to act aside a certain percentage collected, and to be as regular in their contributions as are—or ought to be—in paying rent, or any other of their dues.

The question of "How much?" is one which must be settled with each person and their own conscience, and the proper reply will vary as do the circumstances of each case, but the consideration from which the calculation should be made is "How much, with regard to the sum at my disposal and the obligations falling upon me can I manage to set aside for God's work?" It is not so often that we appear to be the ones who are asked what I can give which will preserve appearances with men and keep me in favour with Heaven?

Spiritual Blessings not to be Purchased

WE do not think anyone will imagine we wish to make it appear that spiritual blessings can be obtained in any way or form by purchase; but this is not the case. When man comes to deal with his Maker he finds that there can no question of purchase, for all man has is God's already. It is for a recognition of this fact, and of the further truth that ownership is the sine qua non of all man's responsibility from his neighbour's in regard to goods entrusted to his care which belong to the Common Proprietor, that we press.

"This is the wrong time to start a separate Territory," said the president of The War conditions will prevent your separation." The increased population will seriously handicap you." "Give us a year to finish up," said others; while the more thoughtful among the leading citizens of the city of God said, "This is the time to strike. If you can demonstrate the possibility of succeeding as a separate Territory under war conditions, you need not wait long before you are able to do so sympathetically, publicly and financially.

Third Anniversary Celebrated By Canada West Territory

Notes by The Chief Secretary on the Splendid Record of the Last Three Years

WE are reminded that this is the Anniversary Week associated with the beginning of this great worldwide Organization. A pleasing coincidence that simultaneously with that of this great event of Canada West should be celebrating the Anniversary of the formation of the Territory, and in this connection I want to mention a few facts to the glory of God.

A Memorable Sunday

How quickly the time has gone! As one looks back, it seems but yesterday when, on that memorable Sunday afternoon, in the crowded public meeting presided over by His Worship the Mayor of the city, and in response to the efforts of the International Secretary, Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton and their Officers, forming the nucleus of the new Canada West Staff, pledged loyalty to God. The General and the Flag. It was then resolved that this newly-formed Territory would be given the best service that could possibly be rendered in the interest of the people of the last West.

We are now celebrating our Third Anniversary, and as we look back fervent and hearty thanks go up from our human soul, first to Almighty God, then to His Servants, the officers, the men, the women, the newly-formed "Territory." The adaptability to fit into what has been new conditions—such as gaunt audacious—has been a source of great satisfaction, and the results of our journeys, and the rigours of the winter—and to do so without complaint has been a powerful factor in the success of the meetings, whether with large audiences, small, or small groups, have all been characterized with that hopefulness, buoyancy, faith, and spirit that men and women on the spot are to be won over to salvation on the spot and immediately for service.

Splendid Consideration

For the Officers and Members of work, both Host and Field, cannot say too much. Whether it be those who hold the lines prior to our coming, those who accompanied us, or those who have been with us since, their self-sacrifice and heroic determination made it a joy to work with them. The Local Officers and Soldiers were delighted, for with a large number of the members of our beloved General's dear old band, "This is the time to strike. If you can demonstrate the possibility of succeeding as a separate Territory under war conditions, you need not wait long before you are able to do so sympathetically, publicly and financially.

SOUL-SAVING ADVANCES. Is the Canada West the attraction, the draw? "Yes," was our emphatic reply. The fact that the number of the soul-saving side of the work shows an increase of forty per cent. during the year gives our members added heart to continue making existing condition betterable; while our friends and relatives, of whom we are all fondly fond, are also to be greatly pleased.

Three years have passed. Alas!

Alas! the war clouds are still hovering over the horizon, when niggardliness is practised, and wrongdoing wherewithal for the prosecution of the Salvation War, and men and women do not give to an extent which is compatible with their means, it must be taken that they are poor in spiritual experience, and it will thought will show that both are the outcome of the same causes. Neglect to give to God what is right and proper, and goods points to a dulness of spirit and spirit. The person who neither loves nor fears God enough to give Him what is due of material things, will also do nothing sufficiently to prompt true heart-sacrifice. On the other hand, while the fact that they may be in the particular through ignorance brings the reply that unless keenly enough interested in heaven to perceive so palpable a duty, and in the extension of their money, they will hardly be likely to awake to its spiritual blessings.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORK. What can we say of young people? We have said applies equally whether a family or a single youth, the adult population through war conditions has caused us all, from the Commissioner down, to turn our energies in the direction of the

PERSONAL AND NEWSY

INTERNATIONAL

To a Council of Young People, Local Officers held by Commissioner Higgins. The great emphasis placed on the importance of possessing the truth which changes the heart and mind, and the need of personal contact with our Leader, was a more outward word, like a nation without light, or a soul without flesh without a living man within.

Commissioner Higgins continues his work on behalf of soldiers and sailors. From Neiland Hall, he has distributed over $10,000 of parcels of news and articles of clothing to British prisoners and troops. Many letters have been forwarded to him from local centres. Many of the letters written to Mrs. Higgins from the residents of their homes in the United States, Canada, and elsewhere, are simple thankfulness in which they express, and give evidence of the unbreakable spirit of the men who have been here, and the care given to them.

My first word ought to be associated with our leaders. Our General, who chose to be a soldier, and Mr. Sowton as the present, the newly-formed "Territory." The adaptability to fit into what has been new conditions—such as gaunt and audacious—has been a source of great satisfaction, and the results of our journeys, and the rigours of the winter—and to do so without complaint has been a powerful factor in the success of the meetings, whether with large audiences, small, or small groups, have all been characterized with that hopefulness, buoyancy, faith, and spirit that men and women on the spot are to be won over to salvation on the spot and immediately for service.

A SUMMARY OF INTERESTING HAPPENINGS CONNECTED WITH SALVATION ARMY WORK IN THE UNITED STATES

The visit of Commander Evangelie Booth to Portsmouth and Rochester, N.H., was one that will long be remembered by the citizens of those cities. Large audiences gathered to hear her address and the Mayors of the two cities welcomed her and paid high tribute to The Army's work.

"The commander," writes Colonel Price, "is giving continuous attention nowadays to the great need for men and women to do our work in France. This is probably the chief consideration at the moment, and the Commander is arranging special meetings which secure reinforcements at once. These plans will release all available men and women for this pre-eminent service."

A conference of Provincial Officers was held at New Haven for the immediate future. All this conference the next War Service Fund Drive will be the chief subject for discussion, and its date and the amount of the quota will be decided upon. Owing to the conditions in the United States is opening up in a marvelous way."

Important Conference

Major Hyatt of New York has written a letter of thanks to The Salvation Army for its services in connection with the relief of the poor last winter, especially as regards supplying fuel.

Besides the Work Women's Home and Hospital, which is caring for the wives and children of United States soldiers, the Brooklyn Nursery and Hospital is also devoting a part of its space and time to the Army's children in the institution.

Commissioner Still recently opened a new Hut at Camp Funston, which is situated in the centre of the State of Kansas.

New York Congress

A Congress was conducted by Colonel McIntyre in New York, an Adjutant General and Officer of the Central Province were present. A public demonstration in the Memorial Hall was held in connection with this event, when party of twenty-four addressed Officers farmed out in France.

Colonel Holt has just submitted proposals for the erecting and securing of buildings for Salvation Army Work. Reliefs purpose near several of the camps in South Africa. Parker recently visited the several camps to report on the advisability of the plans. There is every probability that within the next few weeks we shall be opening our work in most of the camps.

Arrangements are being made to erect a Salvation Army hut at Union Square, New York, similar to that at Boston. This hut will probably be ready within a very short time, and since there are always crowds of soldiers and sailors around the great city, no doubt it will prove a great boon to them.

The newspaper in the United States is making many favorable comments regarding The Army's War Work.

The Mesa, Ariz., "Tribune" says:

"Whatever the religious beliefs of the people, they have had the pain to The Salvation Army for accomplishment. Its members are real soldiers, going where and when they are commanded to go, and their work is always well done."

Western Officers are Optimistic

Some Expressions of Opinion Regarding the Position of Canada West and the Prospects Ahead

The following are extracts from some expressions of opinion by representative Officers regarding the position of Canada West and the prospects ahead.

Brigadier Taylor, Divisional Officer for Manitoba:

"A review of the progress of the work in the Manitoba Division during the three years that have elapsed since the West was made a separate Territory, certainly justifies the change."

"The advantage of closer oversight and more immediate decision-making is evident to all. The Army has been a great success, and under present conditions this has been the case, there is no doubt that under conditions that will obtain after the war, the advantages will be still more apparent."

Hopes Exceeded

Major Sims, Men's Social Secretary:

"Stationed west for some years previous to the change I can see the benefit of the separation and the great opportunity for salvation Army work. There was never a stronger sentiment in favour of The Army than there is today. From the first day that those who professed failure were none, plus the circumstances made during the past three years. Of course, much depended upon whom the leaders were to be, but in this no mistake was made. The closer association into an organization with our leaders as every Officer does, has left its mark and a spirit of optimism and victory permeates our ranks."

Adjutant Howell, Winnipeg:

"I certainly feel that the Canada West situation presents an unlimited opportunity for Salvation Army work. There was never a stronger sentiment in favour of The Army than there is today. From the first day that those who professed failure were none, plus the circumstances made during the past three years. Of course, much depended upon whom the leaders were to be, but in this no mistake was made. The closer association into an organization with our leaders as every Officer does, has left its mark and a spirit of optimism and victory permeates our ranks."

Doors Opened

Adjutant Pugmire, Finance and Property Department:

"Travel where you will in this wonderful Western land, the optimistic 'Western Spirit' seems to permeate the thought and activity of every community. And in its endeavour to keep abreast of this industry, The Army is realising many significant opportunities. Doors are opening to us everywhere, and people of all classes are looking to us as never before."

Let us put by some hour of rest

For holy things! Whether it be
When dawn, or through the window-pane,
Or when the sun is high;

Flame, like a blushing rose,
Or when the thrush sings in the trees
Of eve;

Its plaintive melody; your feet
To jingle bells, or your hands to play

Wherever to hold right courses on
The soul;

From sorrows and sad and misery;
Swept by the whistling of winds

And touched by the White Infidelity!

MARY'S BACKERS AND OUTLET TRAVEL

"Occupy the lakeside,"

Lake (1913) thought is, "What is the best place to go?"

Each one is responsible only for their own personal belongings, and there are clearly visible the gifts. One may be rich or poor, or the other may be equal to God, but each will be available because of his good will or inability to do good for the Kingdom of God, then no little things. Every service is popular—to go to give of one's cold water to the least of us, a Canadian."

"The average citizen's share in gathering nuts and fruit wintering necessities consists in laying in, now, his household or his factory supplies for the cold months. It is the same attitude of this sweet woman."

All the critics stand about the surfaces and look on the fragrant offering of her incense, and say, "A waste."

True, that is true, but her votive has been ministrated, enlightened. That is one of the contrasts between the rich and the poor, the rich are more appreciated. But when we inquire did Mary care so long as the simple Lord served her. Jesus knew! He saw them.

The sweetness of the fragrance of the incense, the fragrance of the heart and gave His happiness in what shall say but what the meaning of that chaste and lovely yet Hino comfort in the following ages?

How sick is the eye of praise. To-day, Mr. Lord, tomorrow, "Kensy" have easily made this path with film and found the roses of affliction to be almost wholly outside the military scope. In fact, some manufacturers of leather foot-shoes have been almost entirely unaffected by the hope of finding a good substitute.

HOME CANNING

ANY woman can save money by canning her own fruits and vegetables. When I raise fruits and vegetables in my own garden, I find the cost of canning is very nominal and the profit much greater than when I purchase them, says Mrs. T. J. L. New Jersey.

On Housekeeping, I still consider her proposition. The only thing that I can't afford is to buy meat, when the season was over, one hundred dollars a week, and after discarding what was wormy and rotten, I obtained a few cents a day's meat.

I obtained fifteen cents a pound, this made the cost between fifteen and sixteen cents a can, but I contained much more than the one can buy at that price that I consider very cheap. For tomatoes I paid 20 cents a peach-basketful, and each basket averaged nine quarts, a cost of about 22 cents for each quart, when the ordinary time of tomatoes cost from 16 to 18 cents a quart.

The sugar for three and one-half quarts of peach syrup, which was made from peach-jam and cans, which otherwise would have been thrown to the chickens, cost me one dollar. I used this as a syrup for maple syrup, which two years ago cost $16.00 a gallon, and is unadulterated, a higher price. Do you wonder that I consider canning profitable?

TO TORONTO TO OTTAWA

FTER a motor trip of inspection over the proposed Provincial Ottawa-Prescott highway, Deputy Minister McLean is reported to have said that the time is not so distant when Toronto will be but one day's comfortable motor ride from Ottawa.

"We regard this road as a vital part of the main line artery through the hilly part of the Province," said Mr. McLean. "It will be in a direct line geographically, but, having regard to the greater bulk of population, this road will best serve the greatest number of people."

WHAT'S DOING ROUND THE WORLD

LOOK AHEAD

In a bulletin issued by the Canadian Railway War Board, the public is warned to prepare for next winter by getting in their supplies early.

"One never feels a squirrel," says the bulletin, "96 deg. in the shade reminds him of 12 deg. below, and he battles nuts."

The war has upset many old standards and set up new ones (says the Popular Science Monthly).

One of the curious results of this upheaval is that gold has been re-

CANADA'S PENSION LIST

According to figures made public by the Board of Pension Commissioners, the total number of pensioners as of January 1, at the beginning of the war up to May 31, was 34,829 and the total number of grantees was 30,133.

EMPIRE'S BREAD BASKET

"It is true now, if never before," says a bulletin issued by the Canada Food Board, "that Canada is the bread basket of the Empire. By August Canada will have shipped 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to our 1917 harvest overseas. Over and above her own normal requirements the United States last year had only 77,696,000 bushels of surplus wheat, although by conservation methods she saved 1,000,000 bushels."

Canada and the United States both have increased the area sown to wheat this year.

The farmers have done their best and the crops are in. What is needed now is the labour to harvest them."

TELEPHONING TO A TRAIN

HOW can you telephone from a train? Is an old iron used to get off on others. This feat has actually been accomplished by the Canadian Government, however. The telegraph used as the conductor, and the electric current reaches the moving train through its wheels. The test, as described in "Railway and Locomotive Engineering," was made between Moncton and Fredericton, New Brunswick, on the Canadian Government Railways. Communication was set up not only between the dispatcher and the train, several miles away, but between the conductor and the engineer of the same train, and it is declared feasible to make a moving train a regular station on the lines of a city telephone exchange.

Brass sheets of higher quality and price will be affected chiefly by the requirement to carry soles as light as possible. This will involve more frequent bending "or more frequent drawing" or more drawing to bring the brass grade of sheet will be least affected, being almost wholly outside the military scope. Our New Serial Story

THE RED THREAD

By S. A. Kirkpen, Author of "Winning Out," "A Maltese Romance," "A Vagrant's Vigilance," etc., etc.

INTRODUCTION

Through all the cordage designed for the service of the ships of the King's navy, there runs a single thread of red.

In the midst of the flying bombs, through the torn curtains, strands are drawn for the final trial that unites their separate weaknesses in a bond of strength, is one which bears this coloured skein. Its thin strand disappears amid the whirling fury, but to the seen again unless the encircling threads be cut or torn away.

He who only sees the rope as it issues from the machine in its finished state, may, perchance, catch a glint of crimson, which is dimmed, and the end jerked past him to complete the coil at his feet. But nothing more. The thread however is there all the same.

Never does he, who looks merely at the surface of the red wove from the flying spools of the hours see, running through the often-fantastic and faulty pattern, the thread which marks it as having been designed for the service of the King of Heaven. Covered up and hidden as it may be however, a careful search will invariably show it present.

There has come into our possession the history of the life of an individual, which illustrates in a special way how God deals with man's sorrows and even with his sins, to secure his salvation.

A man, who had given himself over to the ways of Satan, was to have his wife, who had now recovered from her saintly remission, rescue a heathen who was secured and they were driven to the home of a friend. Assured of his wife's safety, he returned to his home.

One evening he was walking about the house, evidently in deep thought, when he heard the voice of the Spirit of God, distinctly addressing heart and conscience when all else is quiet—into the path of usefulness which, in His plan for the well-being of themselves and the world at large, He desired they should take.

and soon bears her in safety to the ground. Mr. Goldstein was so thankful that there was an official Band Brigade in the City of London as he was at that moment. Being an active man himself, in spite of considerable infirmities, he insisted on assisting in making up his share of the ladder. Other inmates of the house, who on the floor above were also removed by the fire, and the planks of the ground, took hold specially gathered.

There was a general gathering of his wife's friends, who had gathered to see her off, and the family of his wife, who had come down from

to see her off.

He sighted some, just as the door opened.

"All right," he said, "we have got you off."

His money stocks and bonds were all safe.

The wife's savings, the Bank Deposit Co. policy endowment, he insisted on destroying, so that nothing might be destroyed.

SONGS OF SALVATION

AMAZING LOVE

Tune—Ye banks and bracs, 121;
Song Book, 220.
And can it be that I should gain
An interest in the Saviour's blood?
Died he for me who caused His pain?
For me who hid to death pursued?

Amazing love! How can it be,
That thou, my God, shouldestst die for me?

He left His Father's throne above;
So free, so infinite His grace!
Emptied Himself of all but love,
And clothe for Adam's helpless race.
How heavy all, immense and free,
For O my God, if I found out mel!

Long my imprisoned spirit lay,
Fast bound in sin and nature's way;
Thinly diffused a quickening ray,
I waked; the dungeon flamed with light;

My chains fell off, my heart was free,
I rose, went forth, and followed
Thee.

A CROSS FOR ME

Must Jesus bear the cross alone,
And all the world go free?
There's a cross for everyone,
And there's a cross for me.

Chorus

I am clinging to the cross.

The consecrated cross I'll bear,
The death shall melt my free;
And then go home my cross to wear.

For there's a crown for me.

Upon the crystal pavement, down
At Jordan's sacred stream,

Joyful I'll cast my golden crown,
And His dear name repeat.
